Slashdot (meta-moderation)

The screenshot shows the Slashdot website interface. At the top, the logo "Slashdot" is displayed with the tagline "NEWS FOR NERDS. STUFF THAT MATTERS." Navigation links include "blackgod", "Subscribe", "Journal", "Submit Story", "Help & Account", and "Log Out". A search bar contains the text "green" and "Stories". The main content area features two articles. The first article, titled "Mobile: LG Launches Watch Phone In India", is posted by "ScuttleMonkey" on Saturday February 27, @04:45AM from the "can-you-hear-me-now-kit? dept." The article text, written by "roh2cool", describes the LG GD910 watch phone as a thin, 3G-enabled device with video calling and a scratch-proof glass front. A small image of the watch phone is shown. The second article, titled "Science: What Is Time? One Researcher Shares His Exploration", is also posted by "ScuttleMonkey" on Saturday February 27, @04:01AM from the "what-about-the-underverse dept." The article text mentions physicist Sean Carroll and his work on time. A small image of Sean Carroll is shown. The right sidebar contains a "Disable Advertising" section, a user profile for "blackgod (1616805)", and an "Idle Video" section with several video thumbnails and titles.

Mobile: LG Launches Watch Phone In India

Posted by ScuttleMonkey on Saturday February 27, @04:45AM from the can-you-hear-me-now-kit? dept.

roh2cool writes

"If you are a watch freak and also happen to be a fan of ultra rare (and expensive) gadgets, this might just interest you. The LG GD910 watch phone looks like a normal watch – except for the fact that it can double up as your mobile phone when needed. It is quite thin at just 13.9mm and packs in 3G and Video Calling capabilities as well. The phone is quite stylish and the front fascia is covered by scratch-proof tempered glass. It comes with a Bluetooth headset so you don't have to keep talking like David Hasselhoff talked to his super-car KITT in the "Knight Rider" series."

Science: What Is Time? One Researcher Shares His Exploration

Posted by ScuttleMonkey on Saturday February 27, @04:01AM from the what-about-the-underverse dept.

Physicist Sean Carroll has built up a bit of a name for himself by tackling one of the age old questions that no one has been able to fully explain: What is time? Earlier this month he gave an interview with Wired where he tried to explain his theories in layman's terms.

"I'm trying to understand how time works. And that's a huge question that has

The screenshot shows the Friendster website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for "What's New", "Messages", "Settings", "Help", and "Log In". The Friendster logo is on the left, and a search bar is on the right. Below the navigation bar is a secondary bar with links for "Home", "Profile", "Friends", "Search", "Video", "Blogs", and "Invite".

The main content area is divided into several sections:

- Find: Search for old friends, classmates or anyone.
- Connect: View profiles, grow your network.
- Stay in Touch: Get friend updates, share photos and videos.

On the right side, there is a "Sign in" section with fields for "Email" (lruceider@gmail.com) and "Password", a "Remember me" checkbox, a "Forgot password?" link, and a "Sign In" button. Below this is a link for "New to Friendster? Sign Up Now!".

The "Photos" section features tabs for "Latest", "Featured Photos", "Most Grabbed", and "Most Discussed". Under "Latest", there are four photo thumbnails with captions: "Serena" (Posted 12/20/06), "Ignacio" (Posted 12/20/06), "Rachel" (Posted 12/20/06), and "Elizabeth" (Posted 12/20/06). A "More Latest Photos" link is at the bottom right of this section.

The "People" section has tabs for "New Members" and "Popular". Below these are several profile picture thumbnails.

At the bottom right, there is a green box with a search bar and a "fetch!" button. Above it is a section titled "See Who's On Friendster" with a search bar and a "search" button.

The page header features the Wired.co.uk logo and navigation links for NEWS, Topics, TECHNOLOGY, FACEBOOK, and CENSORSHIP. The article title is "The weird world of Facebook's moral code: beheadings good, breastfeedings bad", written by LIAT CLARK on October 22, 2013. The article text discusses Facebook's inconsistent content moderation policies, specifically mentioning the removal of violent content in May 2013 and the subsequent re-emergence of a decapitation video. It also notes a tweet from David Cameron criticizing Facebook's handling of beheading videos. An image of the Facebook logo is shown on the right side of the article. The browser's status bar at the bottom indicates the page title and the current date and time: Tue Nov 05, 11:39.

The weird world of Facebook's moral code: beheadings good, breastfeedings bad

TECHNOLOGY / 22 OCTOBER 13 / by LIAT CLARK

Facebook's decision to lift its ban on some of the most extreme graphic content posted to its network is the latest in a long line of incongruous rules that have come out of its vague terms of service.

In May 2013 Facebook had bowed to pressure to take down graphic violent content. However, as flagged up by the BBC, a video depicting a man decapitating a woman in Mexico has reemerged on the site. It's paved the way for a string of complaints and criticism, including a tweet today from David Cameron, which read: "It's irresponsible of Facebook to post beheading videos, especially without a warning. They must explain their actions to worried parents."

Facebook told Wired.co.uk today that a warning has since been published on the site before the aforementioned video plays (Wired.co.uk does not wish to watch a beheading in order to verify this, so will take Facebook's word for it).

Mastodon

The screenshot displays the Mastodon web interface with a dark theme. It is divided into four main sections:

- Profile (Left): Shows the user 'Gargron' with a search bar, profile picture, and a text input field for a new post. Below the input are options to 'Mark as private' and 'Do not display in public timeline'. A 'TOOT' button is visible.
- Home Feed (Center): A vertical list of posts. The top post is from '@soft_chomps' (@Gargron oh wonderful). Below it is a post from 'F!rian @theoutrider' about a German New Year's Eve tradition. A 'boosted' post follows, also from 'F!rian @theoutrider'. At the bottom is a post from 'Pete @peemee' saying 'So this is 2017. Yawn. No different. Goodnight!'. Another 'boosted' post is at the very bottom from '@hoodie'.
- Notifications (Right): A list of notifications, including 'Rachel Kaye Clarke favoured your status', 'Ren favoured your status', 'josef favoured your status', and 'Fenreliania favoured your status'. Each notification includes the user's profile picture and the action taken.
- Getting started (Far Right): A sidebar with a hamburger menu icon. It contains links for 'Public timeline' and 'Settings'. Below these are instructions: 'You can follow people if you know their username and the domain they are on by entering an e-mail-esque address into the search form.' and 'If the target user is on the same domain as you, just the username will work. The same rule applies to mentioning people in statuses.' At the bottom, it says 'The developer of this project can be followed as Gargron@mastodon.social'.

In the bottom right corner, there is a cartoon illustration of a mammoth holding a paper airplane in its trunk.
